I found the book Spiritual Real Estate, an insightful and worthwhile read. I always have had an interest in Carl Jung's work and in self-help type books. I thought that this book was going to be a quick easy read with some how to tips. I realized as soon as I read the introduction, that this was not the case. The author threw out a verbal net that drew me right in. Joanne Park put herself out there from page one, and I had to continue reading. The book contains a great deal of information on a number of topics dealing with living a peaceful and aware life; therefore, I decided to slow down and savor the read. The chapters on the Anima, Animus, Dreams, and the Mandala offered me opportunities and tools for my personal insights and growth. The section that contained the Wisdom Quotes was an added bonus because I love beautiful quotations. This book has much to offer, and I definitely plan on re-reading it. And in these hectic days of 2017, I am going to start with chapter 15, my favorite, The Art of Not Doing.
